

STANDARD LAND USE CODE - MURRAY CITY, UTAH, 1987

ADOPTED BY ORDINANCE 8716

Effective April 7, 1987

FOREWARD

The Topical Descriptive Index of the "Standard Land Use Code for Murray City, Utah," has been prepared to be a companion volume to the Murray City Zoning Ordinance. The purpose of this index is to define land use categories in a uniform classification system.

This index was prepared by utilizing the Standard Land Use coding manual published by the Urban Renewal Administration (URA) and Bureau of Public Roads (BPR.) There are, however, some modifications to the National Standard Land Use Code to more closely reflect the development of land in Murray City.

The process of further defining land use categories might require the further classification of various uses. If the need arises to give a new or better definition to a specific category, these matters should be called to the attention of the Murray City Community Development Director.

The land use code is applied to the Murray City Zoning Ordinance. This enables a clear and more concise definition of permitted uses in specific zones without requiring voluminous listings of individual uses in the body of the ordinance.

MANUFACTURING: 2000 AND 3000

This major group includes activities involved in processing of materials that produce a material of higher value than that of the original material. All activities are usually in establishments and oftentimes are called plants, factories or mills. Establishments involved in putting together parts of a manufactured product are considered manufacturing as long as the new product is neither a structure nor other fixed improvement such as high ways.

The final product of a manufacturing establishment may be "finished" in the sense that it is ready for utilization or consumption, or it may be "semi-finished" to become a raw material for an establishment engaged in further manufacturing. For example, the product of a copper smelter is the raw material used in electrolytic refineries; refined copper is the raw material used by copper mills; and copper wire is the raw material used by certain electrical equipment manufacturers.

Printing, publishing and industries servicing the printing trades are classified as manufacturing industries.

There are borderline cases between the manufacturing code category and other divisions in the Regional Land Use Classification System. Specific instances will be found in the descriptions of individual industries. A few of the more important examples are:

Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries. Processing on farms is not considered manufacturing if the raw materials are grown on the farm and if the manufacturing activities are on a small scale.

Mining. The breaking up of ores or the breaking, washing and grading of coal are not considered manufacturing.

Construction. Combining of various manufactured parts at the site of construction by contractors is not considered manufacturing. The prefabrication of sheet metal, concrete and terrazzo products and similar construction materials is included in the manufacturing division.

Wholesale and Retail Trade. Establishments engaged in the following types of operations are not included in the manufacturing division. These include: assembling, grading, and preparing fruits and vegetables for market; shelling and roasting nuts; and establishments primarily engaged in selling to the general public products produced on the same premises from which they are sold such as bakeries, candy stores, ice cream parlors, shade shops and custom tailors.

In addition to selling, functions frequently performed by wholesale establishments include maintaining inventory of goods; extending credit; physically assembling; sorting and grading goods in large lots; breaking bulk and redistribution in smaller lots; delivery; refrigeration, and various types of promotion such as advertising and label designing.

Retail Trade: 5200 - 5900

This subdivision includes establishments engaged in selling merchandise for personal, household, or farm consumption, and rendering services incidental to the sale of the goods. In general, retail establishments are classified by kind of business according to the principal lines of commodities sold (groceries, hardware, etc.), or the usual trade designation (drug store, cigar store, etc.). Some of the important characteristics of retail trade establishments are: the establishment is usually a place of business and is engaged in activities to attract the general public to buy; the establishment buys or receives merchandise as well as sells; the establishment may process its products, but such processing is incidental or subordinate to selling; the establishment is considered as retail in the trade; and the establishment sells to customers for personal, household, or farm use. Not all of these characteristics need be present and some are modified by trade practice.

Buying of goods for resale to the consumer is a characteristic of retail trade establishments that particularly distinguishes them from the agricultural and extractive industries. For example, farmers who sell only their own produce at or from the point of production are not classified as retailers.

Processing incidental or subordinate to selling often is conducted at retail stores. For example, restaurants prepare meals, and feed stores grind feed. Retail establishments of manufacturing concerns are included in retail trade.

For the most part, establishments engaged in retail trade sell merchandise to the general public for personal or household consumption. Certain exceptions to this general rule are made necessary by trade practices. For example, retail lumber yards are included in retail trade despite the fact that a high proportion of their sales are made to contractors; and establishments selling feed, fertilizer, machinery, etc., to farmers are also included in retail trade. Chain store warehouses are considered auxiliary to the retail establishment served and are classified on the basis of the industrial activity carried on by such retail stores.

Establishments engaged in selling to the general public, from displayed merchandise, products such as typewriters, stationery, or gasoline, are classified in retail trade even though such products may not be used for personal or household consumption. However, establishments that sell these products only to institutional or industrial users and establishments that sell similar merchandise for use exclusively by business establishments are not classified in retail trade.

Livestock, as here used, includes poultry of all kinds, rabbits, bees, and fur bearing animals in captivity, in addition to mules, asses, burros, horses, cattle, sheep, goats, and hogs. This division also includes activities such as dry lot or farm dairies; nurseries; greenhouses sod farms, bulb flower, and vegetable seed crops; mushroom cellars, cranberry bogs; apiaries; poultry hatcheries; and fur farms.

The classification of agriculture also includes agricultural services, animal husbandry services, horticultural services, and other operations such as hunting, trapping, and game propagation, when carried on as business enterprises.

Fisheries. This group includes establishments primarily engaged in commercial fishing; the operation of oyster farms and the tonging and dredging of oysters; the gathering of sponges, seaweed, etc.; and the operation of fish hatcheries or fishing preserves.

Mining. This group includes all establishments primarily engaged in mining. Mining is here used in the broad sense to include the extraction of minerals occurring naturally; solids, such as coal and ores; liquids, such as crude petroleum; and gases, such as natural gas. The term "mining" is also used in the broad sense to include quarrying, well operation, milling (crushing, screening, washing, flotation, etc.), and other preparation needed to render the material marketable. Exploration and development of mineral properties are included.

Mining operations are classified, by industry, on the basis of the principal mineral produced, or, if there is no production, on the basis of the principal mineral for which development work is in process. The mining of culm banks, ore dumps, and tailing piles is classified as mining according to the mineral product derived.

The purification and distribution of water, harvesting and storage of natural ice, bottling and distribution of natural spring and mineral waters, and the crushing, grinding, or otherwise treating of certain earths, rocks, and minerals not in conjunction with mining activities are not included in this division.
